MORGAN DECLINES

To Accept the Secretaryship of the Treasury,

And no New Name has Been Presented by the President

Conkling's Political Chances are Said to Have Steadily Improved

CONKLING'S CHANCES FOR THE TREASURY

WASHINGTON October 25 — The probability of Conkling being nominated secretary of the treasury is freely talked of here to-night and it is very evident that his appointment would be received with more favor by prominent republicans than two weeks ago or even a week since. It is universally conceded that the treasury portfolio will go to New York and the general sentiment is it is very proper it should. Looking over the list of New York republicans for they will be considered in connection with the secretaryship of the treasury some even those who have no special friendship for Conkling admit that he possesses superior claims and fitness to others of this state. A republican senator who was outspoken in his opposition to Conkling a year ago last spring and who but recently thought Conkling ought not to be considered in connection with Arthur's cabinet said to-night he was inclined to believe Conkling decidedly the strongest secretary of the treasury the president could appoint from New York. He said that Conkling as the head of the treasury would rise above the petty jealousies and revenges and instead of undertaking to besmirch the former secretaries would summarily dismiss all officials and employes who have been guilty of irregularities and fill their places with new men and devote himself to the high and important duties of the position. [illegible] there would of course be loud mouthed objections to Conkling but he was satisfied his appointment would meet with much more approval than [illegible] and he had no doubt that in [illegible] six months Conkling would have the sentiments of the country with him. The senator is not alone in having experienced such a change of opinion recently concerning Conkling and Conkling has warm friends here who watch every symptom favorable to him and probably report it where they think it will do the most good.

HOW MORGAN WAS NOMINATED

The name of Governor Morgan for the treasury was not sent to the senate without consultation with him, nor was it sent in any doubt of his decision to accept it. There were many reasons why he preferred not to undertake the proposed labors but reasons the other way seemed to him stronger and upon understanding that he had overcome his objections the nomination was made. The New York papers sent reporters to him and they all concurred in understanding that he would not decline. The intention of the president to send his name to the senate was made known in advance, and the matter was treated as a public fact. He was nominated and confirmed but after all new elements came in and Gov Morgan declined.

REVOLUTIONARY DOCUMENTS

In the senate this afternoon upon the introduction by Sherman of a resolution to instruct the librarian to report on the purchase of certain papers in possession of the Marquis de Rochambeau in relation to the revolutionary war there was much discussion. It was brought out that they consisted of 1,400 unpublished original letters and papers from the hand of Washington, Count Rochambeau and others, and 59 original maps. The price was $20 000. The marquis being poor had brought the papers at the request of the library committee. There was objection to binding the government to pay for them at present. Voorhees claimed they were inestimably valuable. Ingalls animadverted on the whole transaction in a sarcastic way but the resolution, being so modified that the library committee should consider the matter, passed.

MORGAN NOT YET ACCEPTED

Latest advices received at the treasury department are that Morgan has not yet accepted the treasury portfolio. Secretary Windom maintains that his duties at the department have ceased. Judge French has been appointed acting secretary and is signing letters to-day. Secretary Windom is now with President Arthur.

THE CABINET NOMINATIONS

WASHINGTON, October 25 — Ex-Senator Pomeroy who saw the president this morning, states that Morgan declines the secretaryship, but one of the secretaries said that no positive declination had been received to his knowledge. The president was assured that Morgan would accept before he appointed him. Mrs Morgan urges her husband not to accept. On this score the president notified the cabinet and others that he was too busy to see them to-day.

The nomination of attorney general was withheld because it is said Howe may be offered the treasury if Morgan declines. The president told a senator to-day that he would ask the senate to sit longer than Thursday evening.

NOTHING FROM MORGAN

At 3 30 Morgan had not accepted and it is believed new names will be [illegible] for the treasury and attorney general.

MORE NOMINATIONS

The president nominated William H Wells of Michigan, consul at Dundee. Mattson of Minnesota, consul general at Calcutta. Edward I White of California coiner of the mint at San Francisco. Warren Potter, of Colorado agent of the Southern Ute agency.

THE NEW YORK SENATORS

The republican members of the elections committee said the case of Lapham and Miller was a clear one and they did not desire to investigate, but Hill of Georgia and Pugh, of Alabama were appointed to satisfy the democrats in the matter.

ARTHUR MACVEAGH AND THE STAR ROUTE

WASHINGTON, October 25 — The president has again asked MacVeagh to remain because he warmly admires him or because he desired to disarm criticism in the Star route matters. MacVeagh is said to have offended the other secretaries by his frank avowal that the president had a right to choose his own advisers. MacVeagh says that though the Star route cases may fail it will not be from lack of zeal [illegible]. There will be evidence enough to convict a dozen men to the penitentiary but the whole moral weight of the administration was necessary to secure conviction. The accused have plenty of money and backing [illegible] and political and press [illegible] inclined to lean toward the accused in this district. The president fully understands the matter and it is hoped he would fulfill the highest expectations of his friends.

MORGAN DECLINES AND THE PRESIDENT IS TROUBLED

Gov Morgan was inclined to reconsider his determination. To-day he positively declined the treasury portfolio. So much has this confused matters that the president decides to withhold action as to the attorney generalship until the treasury portfolio is settled. [illegible] continued as to the second choice for the latter place and the former rumor is thereby revived that ex-Senator Howe will be nominated for treasury and that this action will be deferred until the head of the department of justice is determined upon. A strong probability however is that the secretary of the treasury will come from New York and that Judge Folger has been tendered the position. To-morrow's developments are looked for with much interest.

WHAT FOLGER WILL DO

President Arthur has received telegraphic information that ex Governor Morgan declines the secretaryship of the treasury and a letter embodying his decision is on the way. It is reported to-night that the treasury portfolio has been offered Judge Folger of New York. The president said to-day that he would probably send in the name of another prominent financier to-morrow and that he did not expect to hold the senate longer than Thursday.

A correspondent of the Boston Herald Independent says that if all the people who are longing to assist Mahone were able to vote, his ticket would have forty thousand majority.

TYNER'S LIBERALITY TO FRIENDS

NEW YORK, October 25 — The Times says A troublesome Times correspondent has discovered that one of Tyner's personal friends, with whom the assistant postmaster general makes his headquarters when hunting in the far west, is postmaster at Laramie with a salary of $2 100 per annum and an allowance of $1 200 for clerk hire. At least this was the handsome allowance made while Tyner ruled although the Laramie office paid less than $400 a year in box rents and commissions. But the assistant postmaster general's liberality went further. He laid out the post routes over his hunting grounds, established a postoffice known as "Tyner," and allowed compensation of routes to amount to thousands of dollars, the annual returns being $24. If any close-fisted tax payer grumbles at this liberal way of doing business he should be silenced by the information that the men who made all the money that came out of the business were Tyner's hunting companions.

SENATE PROCEEDINGS

WASHINGTON October 25 — The oath of office was administered to Acting Secretary F I Shaber.

Sherman called up the resolution authorizing the librarian of congress to receive and preserve the papers of the Count De Rochambeau to await the action of congress on the proposition to sell the same to the United State government. After debate the resolution was adopted.

[illegible] offered a resolution which was laid over directing the finance committee to investigate the accounts for the expenditure of several appropriations for contingent expenses of the treasury department since July 1st, 1871.

An executive session followed.

A number of bucks have gone to the agency to talk the matter over with him and secure more liberty of action. There is nothing more and there is not the least hostile disposition.

BAFFLED ATTEMPT

Robbers Board a Train but are Repulsed.

PITTSBURG Pa October 25 — An attempt was made by three unknown men to rob the Chicago express on the Pittsburg, Ft Wayne and Chicago on its way to this city about 12 o'clock last night. The train had just left Bucyrus Ohio and was running about 15 miles an hour when the men boarded it and attempted to force their way into one of the Pullman sleepers. They were met in the vestibule by Conductor Shrillis, who tried to eject them when one of the party drew a revolver and fired several shots fortunately without injuring any person. The passengers were aroused by this time and the thieves becoming frightened escaped by jumping from the train.

FOXHALL WINS.

The Cambridgeshire Stakes in England,

After a Handsome Run Before an Immense Crowd

Keene Congratulated and the Victory Does Not Surprise Him

LONDON October 25 — At Newmarket the race for Cambridgeshire stakes was won by Keene's Foxhall. Lucy Glitters second, Tristan third. Thirty two horses started. After a couple of breaks away there was a fairly good start. Shinglass made the running from Knight of Athol, Pireus and Montrose. The most prominent of the second lot were Philammon, Ben D'Or, Lucy Glitters, Tristan and Foxhall. The rear lot consisted of Peter, Mistake and Trojan. There was but little change for half a mile when Lucy Glitters took the lead with Foxhall, [illegible] Tristan, Incendiary, Lucas and Paula close up. When a little over one fourth of a mile from home Lucy Glitters was leading, Foxhall and Tristan by one half length with Mistake close up on the lower ground. This order was maintained past the red post. When drawing near home Foxhall closed up and going on won comfortably but by a head only before Lucy Glitters separated from Tristan by a neck. [illegible] Incendiary was fourth, fifth Pireus sixth Ben D'Or seventh [illegible] Forster [illegible] Melrose and the Cavalry following in the order named. The last three were Lucas, Peter and [illegible]. Betting at the start 10 to 1 against Foxhall and [illegible] to 1 against Lucy Glitters. Time 2:1[illegible]

Watts rode Foxhall.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT

A crowd thronged the course to-day. During the hoisting of the numbers [illegible] there was a sharp shower but before the start the sun shone bright. Great annoyance was felt by the Americans at not seeing Foxhall and Mistake saddled in paddock. The majority including Foxhall and Mistake had the finishing touch at the starting post early this morning. Mistake was backed in a spirited manner at [illegible] while Foxhall maintained his position. A large amount went on Keene's champion. The racket was very heavy. There was some delay in the start, Sportsman and Peter showing much temper. The field eventually got away, on pretty good terms for a moment presenting a beautiful line of color. Springlass and Eminence were the first to break the line and they made a joint running. Knight Athol Lucy Glitter Montrose and Prometheus in immediate attendance. Well up with these were Carriefilly Muriel Scobell Falkirk and Incendiary. Then came Petronel Pistonpaus and Ben D'Or the remainder being well together for three furlongs, when Springlass and Eminence dropped back and Lucy assumed the lead. She was succeeded by Tristan Pireus Incendiary, Paula Philammon Prometheus and Foxhall. The last mentioned had worked away from the ruck and was lying handy with the lot named. At the red post he had drawn up to Lucy Glitters who headed him by only half a length. The pair were running very wide of each other, Foxhall being on the top ground. Tristan and Paula were alone showing prominence in the centre course. The race was now almost confined to these four for they were a long way clear of Incendiary and Pireus who shortly afterward showed distress. When half way up the hill Foxhall made a grand spurt, and quickly getting on terms with Lucy Glitters, won cleverly by a head, Tristan running on to the end being beaten by a neck for the second place.

KEENE DELIGHTED

NEW YORK October 25 James R Keene, owner of Foxhall, was warmly congratulated on his victory. When asked if it was unexpected Keene replied, "Well I should say not as I backed him very heavily to win the race. He is the greatest horse in the world, to win carrying the immense penalty that he did on account of his former victory. Great Ben D'Or was unplaced at even weights and Lucy Glitters, who had proved herself a great racer and carrying only 4 pounds, was beaten by my horse. He was ridden by a third rate jockey, so our English friends can hardly credit the victory to the great experience or ability of the rider."

"What is your opinion of the colt now?"

"That he is the greatest horse in the world, and I would not fear to start him against anything on four legs. His winning the Cambridgeshire to-day, and thus making the most remarkable double victory having previously landed the Czarowitch is the most marvellous performance ever accomplished."

"How about the runners match between Iroquois and your colt?"

"I would rather not express myself on that point, but my opinion of Foxhall you know. If he retains form I don't think any living horse can outfoot or outstay him."

Walton, of the St James hotel of this city now in England won $100,000.

SAN FRANCISCO

Bids to Be Made for Emigrants—News from the North.

SAN FRANCISCO October 25 — The executive committee of the immigration committee of the board of trade has adopted a report showing that a great quantity of United States land in the state surveyed and unsurveyed, besides large tracts held in private hands, can be purchased at $2 50 to $60 per acre. The report recommends the establishment of an immigration bureau of responsible citizens, that the railroad companies be asked to make concessions to emigrants, and that the representatives of California to congress be asked to obtain appropriations for further surveys of public lands. The report will be submitted at the general meeting of the board of trade next Thursday.

A despatch from Nanaimo, Vancouver Island, says the steamer "California" arrived from Sitka with dates to the 18th. The United States steamer Wachusett returned from Yakutat September 2[illegible] with the Indian who murdered Campion and Maloney last fall. Captain Glass has taken charge of the Wachusett and will sail for Chili [illegible] Wrangel on the 20th inst. The revenue cutter Richard Rush arrived here this morning from Kodiak. She had as passengers Mr Craven and wife. The deputy collector of St Paul. They report no news from the "Jeannette or Rodgers." The steamer landed a quartz mill and several mining men.

Times are lively here at present. Everybody is feeling jubilant over the prospects [illegible] which are turning out well. The citizens have petitioned President Arthur to have Collector Morris removed on account of his overofficiousness which is a detriment to the interest of the territory.

THE JEANNETTE

More Surmises as to Her Probable Course

NEW YORK October 25 — The Herald prints another full page Arctic correspondence on which it editorializes as follows Professor Muir thinks the Jeannette pushed directly north through a long sound of open water extending at least one hundred miles southward from Herald island looking like an open river between the banks of ice which was frozen to the shallow bottom. The stream which flows through this opening off the east coast of Wrangell Land is said to set northerly at the rate of about two knots an hour and clearly indicates an opening further north whence the millions of young seals come. Swedish reports confirm this view of the opening, and it is highly probable that the Jeannette saw it and pushed as far north as possible which would fully account for Corwin's failure to discover any trace of the Jeannette on the southeast coast of Wrangell Land where alone she made any search.

Beecher Retires from the Christian Union

NEW YORK October 25 — Henry Ward Beecher retires from the editorial management of the Christian Union. Mr Abbott long associated with Beecher succeeds. Beecher in a valedictory says: While I relinquish the editorial duties of the paper I do not cease to take a deep interest in it. It will continue to publish my sermons and I shall as often as I am able contribute articles and editorials and shall in every way study the prosperity of the paper that is and must always be so near my heart.

CRESTED BUTTE

The Bituminous Coals about that City—What Has been done There.

The Crested Butte Republican gives the following description of the coal deposits now being worked there: "Having given last week some account of preparations for making coke on an extensive scale, we will now tell our readers something of the coal from which it is made. The hill south of Coal creek contains the body of this coal though the veins extend west of town across the valley of the creek nearly to the slope from the north, down which the anthracite veins lie. These veins of soft coal extend clear through this hill south of town to Baxter creek, where they have been also opened. We are thus able to get a very accurate idea of them. They have a uniform dip to the northwest of about 1[illegible] deg. The lowest vein is below any of the present workings on this side of the mountain and probably underlies the town. Where opened on Baxter creek it shows a vein eleven feet thick of an excellent burning coal, apparently the same as the coal found on Ohio creek, from which the town of Gunnison has hitherto drawn its supply. It is very like the Canon City coal, and is not a very good coking coal, but preferable for steam and domestic purposes. The next vein above is about 140 feet perpendicularly above the eleven foot vein, and is five feet thick. It has been opened on both side of the mountain. The dip is the same as that of the first mentioned vein. The roof and floor are both good, smooth sandstone, which lies in layers above and below it. These layers are from two inches to two feet thick, and can be taken out in slabs of any size, making beautiful building stone and paving flags needing no dressing. The Colorado Coal and Iron company have opened this vein on the south side of Coal creek by an entry run on the water level for 340 feet, showing the vein up handsomely. The coal is very soft, more than half coming out as slack. As it cokes very easily, this is a great advantage, as it is so much easier to move and makes better coke than lumps do. The famous Connellsville coke is made from coal that is all slack, no lumps being found in it. Mining from this (the north) side of the mountain enables the coal to be got at on an up grade, the mine thus freeing itself from water. Some seventy feet perpendicularly above this vein lies a small vein, apparently about two feet thick, on which no work to amount to anything has been done on either side of the ridge. About fifteen feet above this is the vein that has been longest worked. It lies in the same sandstone as the lower veins, and has the same inclination to the northwest. The workings have shown it to be from three and a half to six feet thick. It was originally opened by John and Dan Jennings in 1875, being the first discovery of coal in this neighborhood. They took up 160 acres of land on the north side of the creek, and their old log claim cabin still stands on the hill above the creek, and the original hole can be seen where the road winds round the point of the hill. The news of this discovery brought others to hunt for coal. Captain Bunn, reasoning that the formation crossed the creek on a level, tried the bank at an equal elevation from the creek on the south side and in less than half a day had opened the vein there and he took 160 acres on the south side of the creek. In the winter of '77 to '78 the Jennings boys sold out their claim to Howard F Smith and proceeded to make themselves more famous by discovering the Sylvanite mine. During 1878 to 1880 the coal mined in this region was all taken from what had been the Jennings claim. For the purpose of prospecting rooms were opened, but the entry continued straight ahead for four hundred feet. An air shaft was the only other work done. The coal improves in thickness and quality for all this distance. The Colorado Coal and Iron company have this year been opening this vein on the other side of the creek what was the Bunn claim with similar results to those on the north side. In the opinion of the writer this is the best coal found in this hill. It is somewhat harder than the lower vein and does not make so much slack. The lumps burn freely and make good fuel. It is the finest blacksmith coal in the west. Old workmen claiming it superior to the Blossburg for that purpose. The slack makes a very strong clean coke over 7[illegible] per cent of the coal turning into coke. From this vein the coke company expect to turn out 12[illegible] tons daily after this month. As on the lower vein the entries have been driven in at the creek it is only necessary to go up the creek to find the veins at creek level. By following up the creek about an eighth of a mile we come to still another vein which would be perpendicularly about 100 feet higher than the last described. Only a limited amount of work has been done on it here. It is three and one half feet at this opening. It is like in character to the 11 foot vein non-caking but excellent fuel. It was discovered by "Yank" Baxter on the same day that Captain Bunn made his location below. This vein has been opened largely by Skinner and Jefferson high up on the mountain southeast of town nearly two miles from Baxter's hole where they have done some fine work and from which for a year past they have been supplying our citizens with domestic fuel. There is something more than 2 000 acres carrying these five veins of coal lying adjoining our town to the south and west enough to supply the country from the mountains to the sea for many years to come with the most desirable fuel, and to make certain support to a large and populous town even had we nothing else to rely on. Manager Robinson of the C C & I company has instructions to be ready to supply 200 tons of coal daily to the railroad in a week from this time.

Boston Wool Market

Denny Rice & Co of Boston, report as follows on the wool market of that city:

BOSTON October 21 — The total receipts of wool at this port during the past week comprise 3 71[illegible] bales domestic and 1 581 foreign against 4 2[illegible]0 bales domestic and 901 foreign for the same time last year. The total receipts since January 1 1881, comprise 118,110 bales domestic and 47,[illegible]54 bales foreign against [illegible]6 49[illegible] bales domestic and 87 [illegible] bales foreign for the corresponding period of 1880.

The sales for the week comprise 2 0[illegible] pounds of domestic fleece and pulled, and 382 900 pounds of foreign making the week's transactions foot up 2 472 33[illegible] pounds against 1 9[illegible] pounds and 2 4[illegible]3 [illegible]71 pounds for the two previous weeks' transactions.

The sales as collected from the several houses and given in detail below show an increase of 550 290 pounds over the previous week, the increase being 295,436 pounds in domestic wool and 254 000 pounds in foreign. In domestic wool the largest increase has been in unwashed wool of which 402,622 pounds have been sold or an increase of 208 000 pounds. The sales of Ohio wool have also been large, or 341 300 pounds, and 148,000 pounds more than last week. The increased sales in California wools are particularly noticeable, of spring the sales have been 250 200 pounds, or 160,000 pounds more than last week, and of fall they have been 205,000 pounds, or 106 000 pounds more. Other increases were of combing and delaine of 48,000 pounds, of scoured 33 000 pounds, and of odds and ends 70 000 pounds. The decreases were not numerous, but of Texas some 168 000 pounds were sold less than the previous week, of Michigan 68 000 pounds less and pulled 96,000 pounds. In foreign the sales have been 382,800 pounds against 128,000 pounds last week. There have been some 28,000 pounds of Australian sold less than last week, but the increase is made up of 330 000 pounds foreign carpet wool which is 310 000 pounds more than last week so that very nearly half the increase in the sales of the week is due to the larger sales of foreign and as the sales of carpet are not reported each week by some dealers the present may, in regard to foreign represent a business of more than one week.

Manufacturers are diligently pursuing the policy of buying sparingly, which their previous liberal purchases fully justify. Prices are, however, fairly steady, although as compared with two weeks ago some grades of wool may be considered a trifle off. The sales of territory wools have been so large of late that prices are fairly sustained, and it is noticeable that the fact that territory and other similar wools have been cheap has not escaped manufacturers. The orders of these have been quite heavy for many weeks, and stocks now present less desirable assortments. Unwashed fleeces have been sold largely this week. Carpet stock has been in good demand, but the supply is not large. There is a short stock of both fine combing and fine delaine, as previously noted. The inquiry for fleeces has also improved, and now that stocks of other wools are being reduced there is expected to be continued improvement. There have been many manufacturers in the market this week, and the tone is good although if a quiet market should rule for some weeks a decline would be inevitable. But dealers have every reason to be firm. At the prices they are realizing for their wools, they could not replace them for the country markets are very strong. Ohio at 42c and upwards, and Michigan at 40 to 41c. From San Francisco telegrams report the fall wool is being piled up, and the market is too high to induce purchasers to take hold. It is reported that sales have been made at Red Bluff at 13c, which is 4 to 5c lower than a year ago. There have been sales of 4,000 bales of Australian wool at Melbourne, and 300 bales at Adelaide, at 13¾c. Some 20 000 bales will be offered at the Melbourne sale of the 26th, and the price will, it is thought, be 12¼d, or equal to 43½c down. The receipts of foreign wool at this market have been increasing of late. In addition to the sales of foreign wool reported this week we hear of the sale of 100,000 pounds Montevideo, the wool not in this market, on private terms.

...The Colorado Springs company has set apart a tract of ground ten acres in extent on the beautiful plateau in front of the very center of the town, which will be donated to the state should the capital be located here. No more beautiful nor suitable site for a capitol building can be found in the state.

Adjoining the grounds donated to the state for capitol purposes there is now being erected one of the largest and most elegant hotels in the state, which with the other hotels and many large boarding houses in the city, will furnish the best and most ample accommodations for all who may have occasion to live in or visit the state capital.

To the other advantages above enumerated, may be added, freedom from mud in winter and dust in summer, magnificent streets, parks and shade trees; good gas; an ample supply of the purest water; excellent educational institutions, and proximity to the celebrated mineral springs at Manitou.

Owing to its central location, the selection of Colorado Springs should and doubtless will be a powerful agency in abolishing the sectional feeling that has always existed between the northern and southern portions of the state, and which has so frequently threatened to destroy the homogeneity of interests and fraternal feelings that should characterize the people of the great commonwealth of Colorado.

In conclusion, we respectfully urge upon our fellow-citizens to abstain from throwing away their votes upon localities that have no chance of success. No more temporary local interest should be considered at this time, for the question now submitted to the calm judgment of the people is one of more vital importance to the state at large than to any particular city or locality.

The French visitors will be publicly received at Boston to-day.

General di Cesnola has returned from Europe laden with spoils for the New York Museum of Art. He has purchased the Charvet collection of antique glass for 75,000 francs. Our consul at Florence gave him a collection of Venetian glass valued at $40,000. The successful collector has also secured from the museums of Paris, Berlin, Munich and Vienna many copies of important works of art.

...of parties and their leaders. They carry conviction as the country believes in the purity and unselfishness of their patriotic platforms and promises. Probably we have the best recent illustration of these principles in the two preceding administrations. The Chronicle still exalts Grant's administration because it did so much directly in the interest of the party. It condemns Hayes' administration because it did so little directly for the party. But what were the results. Grant attempted to keep up the party organization in the south by using all the influence and power his office gave to him in directly strengthening the party. As a result we lost Arkansas, Alabama, Tennessee, North Carolina and Mississippi all of which, at the beginning of his administration, were republican. Only South Carolina, Florida and Louisiana were left in the republican organization at the end of his term, and these states even then were believed to be democratic by almost half the country, and could not maintain republicans in office unless supported by the bayonet. It is a matter of history that under Grant's administration the republican party in the south was blotted out. In the north the result was scarcely less disastrous. Grant began his term with nearly a solid north and a two-thirds majority in congress. After six years of his administration, in the fatal election of 1874, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Connecticut and Massachusetts all decided against the republican party and elected democrats to congress. The two-thirds republican majority in congress of [illegible] became a two-thirds democratic majority in 1874. Under these gloomy prospects the party went into the campaign of 1876, with its magnificent majorities melted into minorities. [illegible] the republican candidate would not have a third of the electoral votes. By adopting a platform which provided reform, the republicans just won, but were still in a minority in the house. So much for an administration carried on to strengthen the party.

Hayes' administration proposed to strengthen good government in the country and was not partisan. The result last year was seen at its close. The republican candidates were elected beyond question. We had a majority in the house for the first time since 1874, and the senate was tied. The lessons of these two administrations are obvious and show plainly "he serves his party best who serves his country best."

[illegible]

...This explanation is only just as the address is universally regarded as a most able and well-written document which [illegible] carrying conviction with it wherever it is carefully read and pondered over. The committee which showed such excellent taste in adopting such an address [illegible] the credit of [illegible]

The official returns from Ohio will be found in our telegraph columns of this morning. Foster had 312,735 votes, and Bookwalter 288,[illegible]. This gives him a plurality of 24,311 votes. His majority over all is [illegible]. The vote this year was smaller than in 1877 when Foster was first elected, but Foster's plurality is greater. Then he had [illegible] and Ewing 319,132 or a plurality of 17,129. This shows a good gain for an off year.

Published returns of the railway passenger traffic in England and Wales are interesting reading. In 1880 the number of passengers carried was almost 541,000,000, of whom [illegible] were first class, [illegible] second class and 471,000,000 third class. This total does not include season ticket passengers of whom there were 1,080,366.

The Boston Transcript has a three column review of Blanch Howard's new novel, "Aunt Serena," which Osgood & Co., of Boston, have just published. Miss Howard gained her reputation by her novel "One Summer," and her latest venture is said to be even an improvement on her first.

Peru has been annexed by Chili. At least so it would appear from the decree that no national authority but Chili's is to be recognized at Lima. This "absorption" is likely to attract a great deal of attention. Already the United States has protested through its proper officials.

A Cabinet of Antiquities.

Avon (N. Y.) Herald.

One of the most interesting half-hours we ever spent was at the log-cabin of the Wyoming County (N. Y.) Pioneer association during our visit to Silver Lake. It is wonderful to see what a collection of rare old relics they have got together. [illegible] term we ever attended. Every article bears the stamp of genuineness, and you feel certain that you are not being imposed upon by some humbug of a woolly horse or the club that killed Captain Cook. Everything is conveniently arranged and plainly marked, and with every article is connected an interesting chapter of pioneer history. They are mostly contributed by the descendants of the old pioneers of the county by whom they had been treasured up as precious heirlooms, some of them for centuries. Many of the young people to-day would be at a loss to tell the uses to which many of these old relics were put. Around the deep, wide fire-place and hanging on ancient cranes were grouped all the antiquated utensils of cookery we ever read about and many more that we never saw or heard of before. One grid-iron, bearing date 1719, was a piece of malleable iron wrought out with a hammer. The collection of old china and earthenware was very rare and some of it costly

...of the law, but he is the slave of [illegible]. The Germans enjoy more liberty of conscience and of opinion than the English. This is the highest kind of liberty, and it is the greatest glory of the German people that they have wrought with their heart's blood. Finally, Professor Bluntschli doubts whether the form of government by party, as established in England, is to be preferred to the German system of a ministry of officials controlled by and acting with the representative assembly of the nation. In England the ministers are party men, whose position depends upon their party having the majority in parliament and not upon their ability as administrators and legislators. Public business is therefore only too often conducted with a view to securing a parliamentary majority, rather than to doing what would be most advantageous for the country. In Germany, on the other hand, the ministry is composed of men trained in the public service as a profession—men fully equal to English ministers in integrity and honor, and as a rule far superior to them in business capacity. They have no connection whatever with any of the parties in the state, and are consequently free to act in the manner best calculated to promote the national interests.

NEW YORK, October [illegible]

Speculation began strong under the belief that Morgan had accepted the overtures and that the railroad war was approaching a conclusion. The main points of the war remain unsettled and Vanderbilt is said to have decided not to give up the war until all the other roads abolish differential rates. It soon became known that Morgan would refuse, and that Gilman was mentioned as an acceptable comprador between the east and the west. He would it was believed reduce the service in the treasury and speculators would hail his advent. In the afternoon the alleged trouble in Paris and the assassination of the czar caused a drop in prices
